

PACIFIC DISTRICT MEETING 2017

"Muster" is an old Middle English word meaning "a cause to gather." While we conduct some group business, we also host guest speakers who are experts in a wide range of domestic and military colonial matters. After the Revolutionary War, militia would usually muster to drill twice each year, once in the spring and the other in the fall. then would be joined by their families and celebrate with good food and drink, music and games.

We have a cause to gather. In the picture is General George Washington looking through his spyglass to see if you've marked your calendar for a gathering of compatriots from Oregon, Washington & Alaska.

There will be Officer Training and Round Table discussion starting at 2 p.m. of Friday afternoon.

Excitement is in the air as the Pacific District Sons of the American Revolution gather for a Conference. Our special guest this year is Treasurer General Warren Alder.
