Description. This beautiful French Charleville Model 1777 restored musket with bayonet is a good example of a main infantry weapon of the Revolutionary War. Seven million were made between 1777 and 1840. Not a reproduction, but an original 1777 AN IX ca. 1810 with new European walnut stock, new 66 cal. barrel, assembled in the 1950's in Liege, Belgium and refurbished to original armory standards. A brass flash guard is fitted over the pan and touch-hole and a leather sling is attached. Five feet long without the bayonet, and 6'4" with. The piece was test-fired by gunsmith Bob Smalser of Washington SAR. Retail value $1,200.00
